Biz2Credit's October Small Business Lending Index™ Shows Highest Spike in Big Bank Lending since the Great Recession

Big Bank and Institutional Lender Loan Approval Rates Continue to Thrive

The monthly analysis of 1,000 loan applications from Biz2Credit.com. revealed continued growth for institutional lenders and big banks, but steady decline for small banks and credit unions.

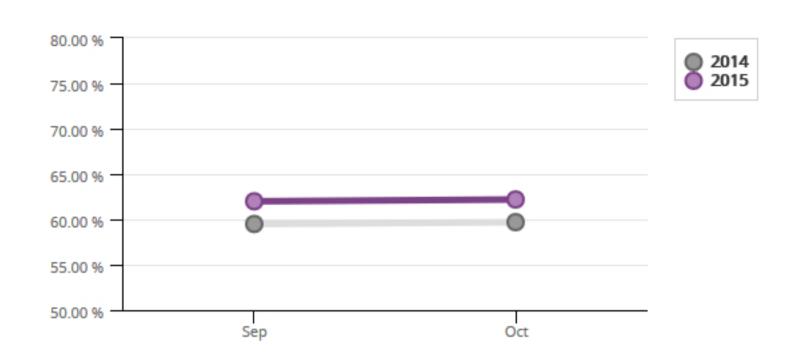

Institutional lenders

Institutional Lenders continued its month-over-month growth, reaching $\bf 62.2\%$, up from $\bf 62\%$ in September.

"We are seeing an increasing demand from institutional investors who want to buy dollar backed assets that have a decent yield as well as low regulatory risks. Right now, small business loans fit both the criteria and thus more institutional investors are buying a greater number of loans at lower yield and longer terms. This also reflects on the growing maturity of marketplace lending, which is becoming more mainstream now as an asset class" said Rohit Arora, CEO, Biz2Credit.

Big Banks

Big banks ($10 billion+ in assets) saw a surprising spike in their approval numbers -- the highest approval rates since after the end of the Great Recession. October showed 22.8% of small business loan approvals, up from 22.5% in September.

"As interest rates start going up, we expect further increase in the Big Banks appetite for small business loans. Big Banks are also warming up to buy more loans from the marketplace lenders" said Rohit Arora, CEO, Biz2Credit.

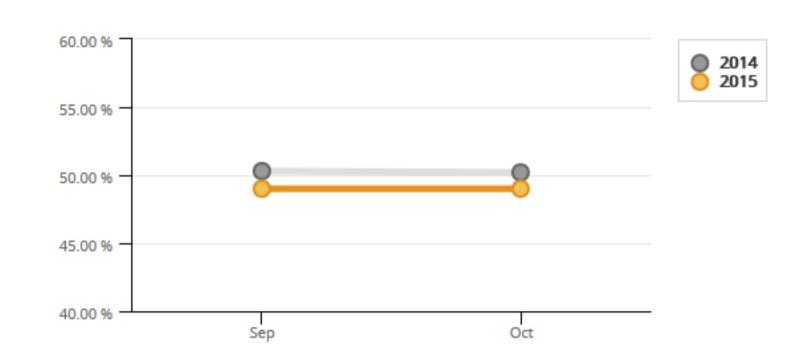

Small Banks

Lending approval rates at small banks stayed flat at 49% in October, the same as in September.

"Small Banks have been slow to adapt to new ways of lending in the small business space, especially incorporating online platforms, and thus their approvals have started to slide down." said -Rohit Arora, CEO, Biz2Credit.

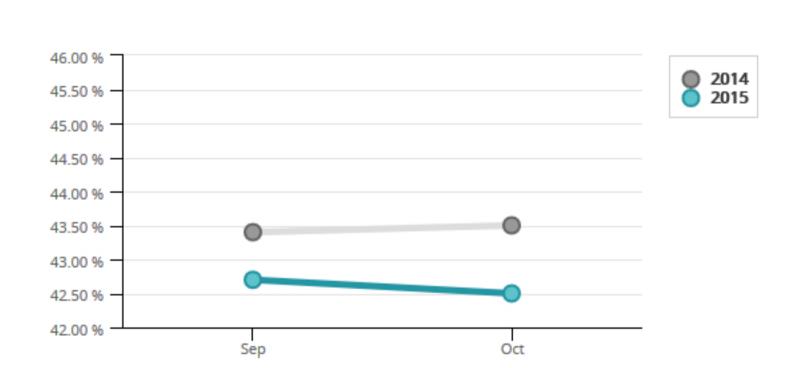

Credit Unions

Credit unions approved 42.5% of loan applications in October, down two-tenths of a percent compared to September.

"Credit Union approvals are at their lowest from the time of starting this Lending Index and the main reason is lack of clarity on the cap which limits credit unions to lend only upto 12.5% of their asset base to small businsses and the pending legistation which will allow the credit unions to lend up to 27.5% of their asset base as well as lack of investments in the digital space." said Rohit Arora, CEO, Biz2Credit.

Alternative Lenders

Alternative lenders dropped slightly in October to 60.8% down from 60.9% in September.

"Alternative lenders approval rates have gone down as they have not been willing to lower their APR pricing thus leading to higher quality customers turning down their offers and borrowing more money from Institutional lenders through marketplace platforms." said Rohit Arora, CEO, Biz2Credit
